Funding Opportunities for Clinical and Community Outcomes Research

Brown Bag Informational Session about the UW ICTR-CAP Pilot Grant Program

Please RSVP here or email your RSVP to kjudge@wisc.edu

Date/Time: Monday, November 13, 2017, 12:00-1:00 (bring your lunch!)

Location: Health Sciences Learning Center, room 1244. This event will also be available via live stream using this link: http://live.videos.med.wisc.edu/

Target Audience: UW-Madison or Marshfield investigators (faculty/scientists) conducting research focused on improving human health and/or reducing health disparities.

UW ICTR-CAP funding opportunities facilitate multidisciplinary, community-partnered research that solves problems in translating knowledge into improvements in clinical practice, policy, and community health programs.

This brown bag will address the following topics:

- Overview of the UW ICTR-CAP funding opportunities released on November 1, 2017
- What is the Clinical and Community Outcomes Research Award and what types of projects do we fund? We encourage projects that meet the NEW NIH definition of clinical trial to apply. See the definition here: https://grants.nih.gov/policy/clinical-trials/definition.htm
- Panel of former awardees will discuss their funded pilot projects and offer tips and lessons learned for potential applicants followed by Q&A
